

Ask two friends their opinions about their favorite city, movie, food, season and book. Then ask why they like those things. Write down their answers. Then let them ask you.

Friend A: _____		Friend B: _____
favorite city Washington, DC is his favorite because he loves museums.	What is your favorite city? Mine is Washington, DC. Why? Because I love museums.	favorite city
favorite movie		favorite movie
favorite food		favorite food
favorite season		favorite season
favorite book		favorite book

Now ask other people about their favorite things. Ask as many people as you can. When you find the people that match the descriptions below, write their names and a sentence about them using the correct possessive pronouns.

Possessive Pronouns:		theirs	his	ours	yours	hers
Find these people...	Name(s)	Example sentence
1) Two people with the same favorite book	Fred and Sally	'Moby Dick' is theirs because they like the ocean.
2) At least one other person with the same favorite movie as you
3) Someone with a favorite season that is different from you
4) A female friend with a favorite city that is different from you
5) A male friend with a favorite food that is different from you

What is your favorite book?

Mine is Moby Dick.

And what is yours?

Mine is also Moby Dick.

Why?

Because we love the ocean.

Answers for above

1) theirs; 2) ours; 3) yours; 4) hers; 5) his;